Free Community Website Allows Parents to Buy, Sell, Trade or Donate Used Sports Equipment

Buy, Sell, Trade or Donate your used sports equipment for Free? That's the idea. Tara Griggs, a resident of Glastonbury, Connecticut . And better yet, by recycling sports equipment within our own communities helped to eliminate the need to ship items and by offering a chance to donate items, it would help give children the opportunity to participate in sports that might not be able to afford to. So Tara thought up SwapMeSports.com and talked her mother Carol Dornbush into being her business partner to her dedicated Sporting Good website where it encourages communities to help each other to buy, sell, trade or donate the sporting equipment they have - while recouping back some of their initial investment.
